LOIS SNYDER, PRES. PAUL BROWN, SEC'Y.

CARRIE OSBORNE, TREAS.

"At last," we sigh, "we have attained the highest point of our high school career." Now we must turn from high school life in order to finish our education in the schools of experience. But we can not leave without briefly reviewing the fondest of all memories, our four years of high school.

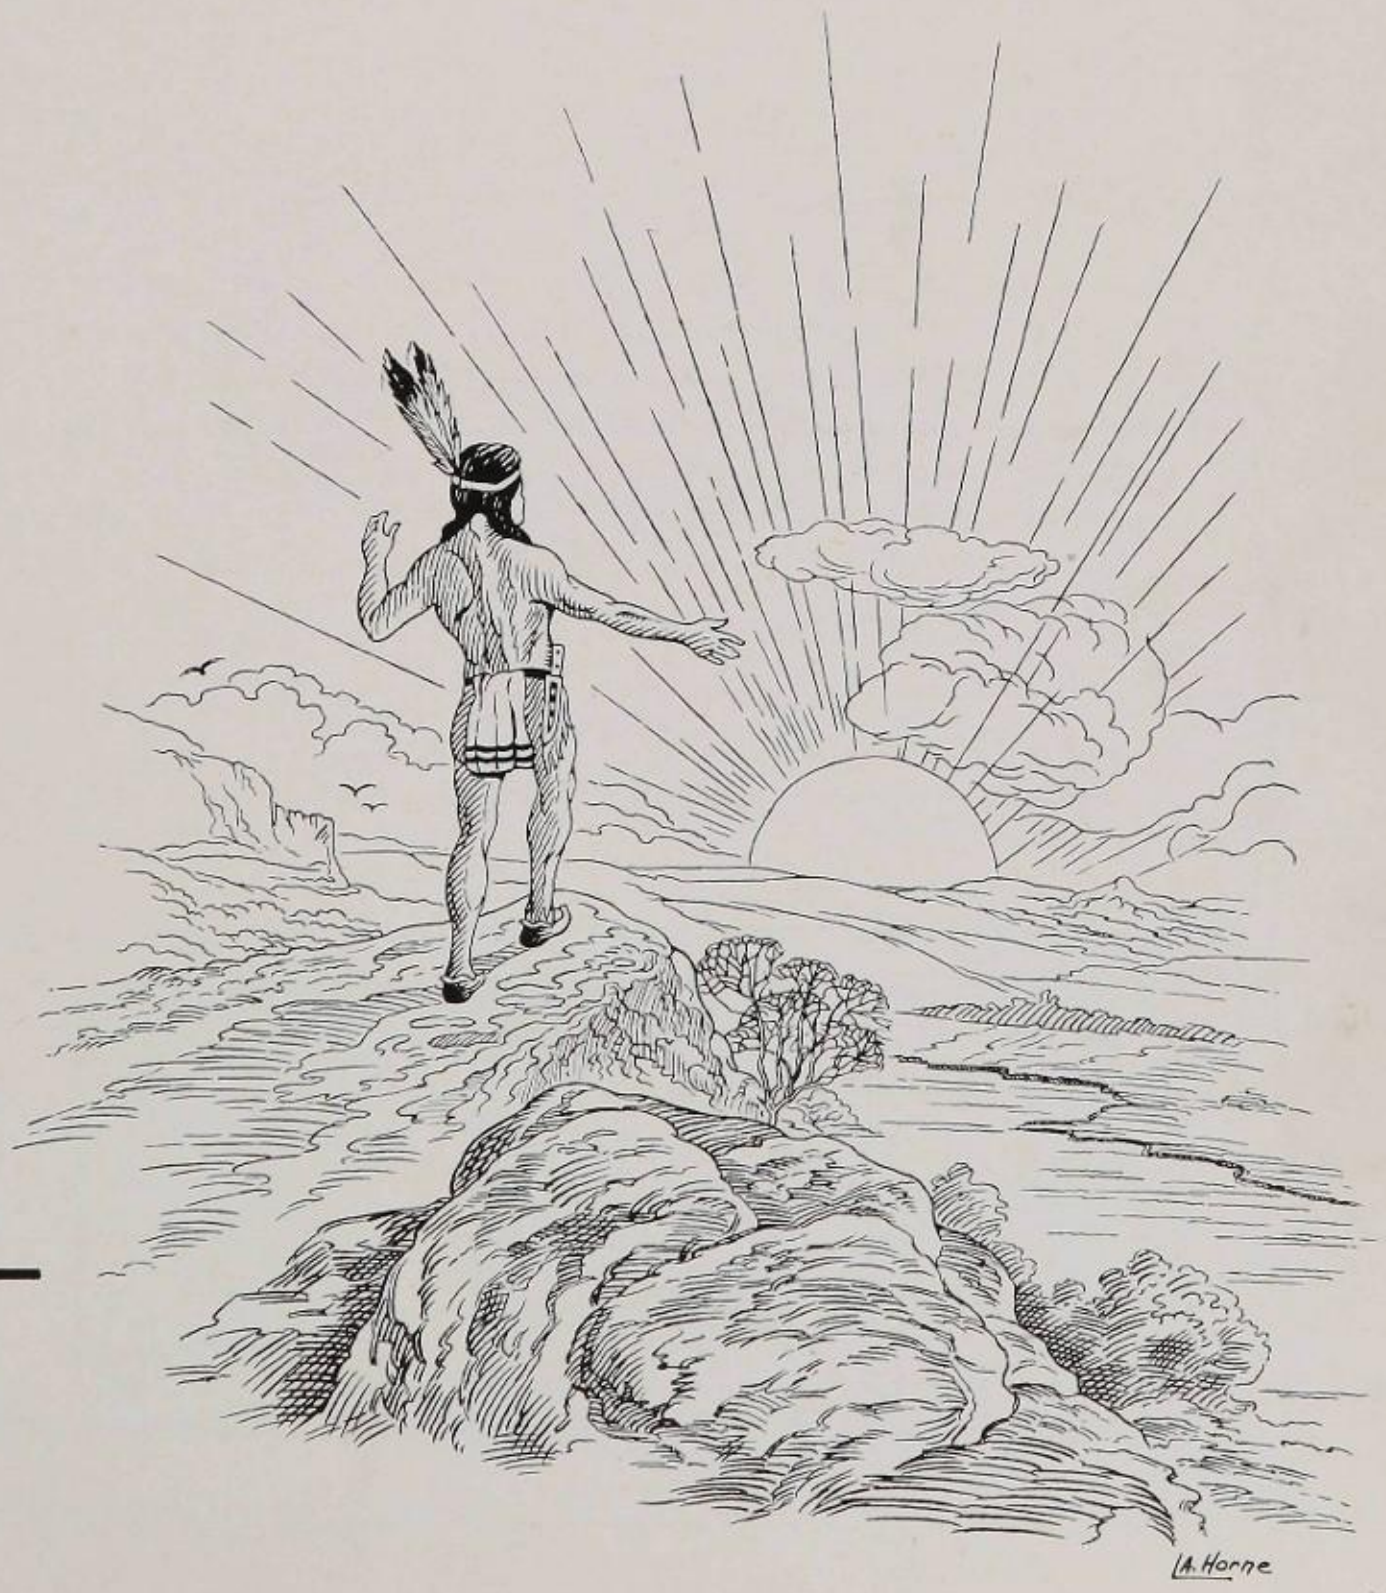
Each year, can be described in one word, the name of a stone: emerald, blarney, grindstone, and tombstone. When we entered this building as Freshmen we proudly displayed our emeralds, for we were, we must admit, as green as grass. But we managed to slip through someway and became conceited Sophomores. "Surely if we made last year we ought to make this," we thought. And so we decided not to study so hard. To counterbalance this mistaken notion we attempted to bluff our teachers. The only stone appropriate for us that year was the blarney stone. But we were awakened from our dream the following year. As Juniors if we were to succeed we realized we would have to study. Determined we set to work on the grindstone.

But these three years with their ups and downs, joys and sorrows, successes and failures, were essential to make us efficient Seniors. In these years we learned to be leaders, fine sportsmen, and loyal students of Washington High. We are not perfect but we have strived to do our best, and to add to the ideals of our school.

And now before bidding farewell to W. H. S. we leave no inscription for our tombstone, for we are confident that in years to come the class of '26 will speak for itself.

C. R. '26.

SENIORS



HELEN ALBRIGHT—"Bissell"

Glee 1, Research 3, 4, Dramatic 4

'Although this maid is rather mild,
And talks in milder tone,
She has a will which we might call
Distinctly all her own."

HELEN BAILEY—"Bailie"

Glee 1, Nature Study 3, Research 4, Com. 4

"Upon the mystic side of life,
She casts a smiling look;
Beneath her eyes the hardest thing
Is like an open book."

HOWARD ALDEN—"Howdy"

Gym 2, 3, Annual Board 4

"Why wonder at the intellect
Of this non-tiring boy?
Why, when a child, he used
"The Book of Knowledge" as a toy."

ALMA BALLINGER—"Hotsy"

Gym 2, 4, Reading 4

"School is to her a joyful game,
Of making teachers mad;
Just like a playful little child,
We never find her sad.' '

BEULAH APPLEBY—"Rosy"

Glee 1, Nature Study 2, Research 4, Com. 4

"Beulah's red cheeks and pearly teeth
Have made many a girl quite jealous,
She does her work, is quiet yet gay,
And doesn't flirt, so they tell us."

ELIZABETH BECKER—"Betty"

Glee 1, 2, 4, Library 4

"Her boyish charm and ready smile
Would make a person walk a mile,
Through thicket wild and mucky fen,
To reach a place where she's just been."

LELAND AX—"Rusty"

Gym 1, 2, 3, Glee 4

"A smile besprinkles the world with delight,
A frown with the depths of despair,
So that is the reason the world is quite bright
When he broadcasts his mirth to the air."

LLEWELLYN BINFORD—"Joshua"

Gym 1, 2, Poster 3, 4, Research 3, Band 4

"If love increases knowledge
And reduces doubt and fear,
We have the wisest in the world

CAROLINE BOYD—"Carol"

Gym 2, Glee 3, 4

"The nimble quickness of the squirrel
In speed cannot surpass,
The lightning movements of the mind
And fingers of this lass."

RUTH BRADY—"Peg"

Sewing 2, Nature Study 3, Glee 4, Com. 4

"She makes one think of out-door life
Of flowers in the sun
That lisp their thoughts in tender words
And smile in friendly fun."

PAUL BROWN—"Brownie"

Gym 1, Basketball 2, 3, 4, Football 2, 3, 4, Track 1, 2, 3, 4, Dramatics 4, Student Council 4, Class Secretary 4

"As when upon athletic fields
Engaged in manly strife, with cool and hardy fortitude
He'll pick his way through life."

ROLAND BROWN—"Rolly"

Gym 1, 2, Track 2, 4, Poster 4

"Our "splinter" doesn't irritate
As other splinters do
But tries to be a helping friend
To anyone that's blue."

VERNA BUCHMAN—"Bookie"

Justus; Orchestra 4

"Though icy winter chills the world
And breezes moan and sing,
Around her beams a shining light,
The warm, fresh light of spring."

HELEN CADMAN—"Caddie"

Gym 1, Student Council 1, 2, 3, 4, Dramatics 3, 4

"A cheery smile for everyone,
The slogan fairly glows,
As round about it circulates
And from her visage flows."

FLORENCE CALHOUN—"Flossie"

Amsterdam; Nature Study 4

"Capacity for deepest thought
Requires steady work,
In educating mind and soul,
And this she does not shirk."

WAYNE CHAMPIOR—"Champ"

Gym 1, 2, 3, 4

"Sweet love with sugared arrow
Has pierced his bosom's core,
Instead of asking love to cease
He only cries for more."

CAROLYN CLARK—"Mutt' '

Gym 1, Glee 1, 3, 4, Reading 3, Annual Board 4

"Why seek afar for gold and pearls,
When anyone can find,
Within her soul that priceless gem,
A nature true and kind."

MURIEL COOK—"Cookie"

Justus; Nature Study 4

"The deepest stream that flows along
Gives off the slightest hint of song,
And she, whose words are short and few,
Drops sparkling gems of richest dew."

VINCENT DEFINE—"Vince"

Navarre; Football 2, 3, 4, Dramatic 3, 4

"Why visitors from near and far
Betake their way to old Navarre,
Why rival athletes scratch their heads
And spend much time in feather beds."

ALBERT DEWALD—"Al"

Orchestra 1, 2, Annual Board 3, Poster 2, 4.
Student Council 2, Class Treasurer 2.

"Though now his fame in full consists
Of pranks and knavish fun,
Some day his work will charm the world
Just as his play has done."

STELLA CORNELL—"Cornie"

Reading 2, Camera 3, Orchestra 4

"The smallest package, so they say,
Contains the greatest prize,
Intelligence and humor bright
Shines from her twinkling eyes."

KENNETH DEWALT—"Kenny"

Nature Study 2, 3, 4

"Although he takes his way with care
And dodges public fame,
Just like the tortoise, slow but sure,
He'll get there just the same."

JOHN CRONE—"Ike"

Gym 1, 2, Football 2, 3, 4

"Life is to him the pigskin game
He makes his troubles sore and lame,
Until they fall to rise no more
And valor adds to History's lore."

MIRIAM DOMINICK—"Marion"

Gym 1, 3, Sewing 2, Research 4, 5, Clinic 5

"Just as deep woodland thickets
Are seen in sunshine bright,
True worth and honest effort
Are always brought to light."

KATHERINE DORNACHER—"Kate"

Gym 1, Nature Study 2, Library 3, Student Council 1, 4, Class Vice President 2

" 'No brains,' they say, 'at all attend
A pretty girl at school,'
But now, indignantly, we take Exception to this rule."

ELEANOR EAYRS—"Sixty"

Dramatics 2, 3, 4, Gym 3

"Above her head she bears aloft
As through the world she fights,
A banner with these startling words:
'Oh, give us women's rights.' "

CHARLOTTE EDWARDS—"Chuck"

Gym 1, 2, 3, Research 4

"As pretty as a plant in bloom
As dextrous as an elf,
The only one who isn't charmed
Is this, fair maid herself".

WILLIAM EDWARDS—"Bill"

Football 1, 2, 3, Basketball 1, 2, 3, Gym 2, Dramatics 3, Class President 1, Student Council 3

"When William steers his mighty craft
Aground on matrimony's bar,
He's going to be for his better half
An inspiration, a guiding star."

GLADYS EHRET—"Glad"

Gym 1, 3, Camera 4, Research 4

"Calm modesty with usual care
Has placed his flowers in her hair,
And on her features fair has laid
A veil from honest motives made."

RAYMOND ELLIOTT—"Ramie"

Gym 1, 2, Nature Study 4

"From our fair school he dwells so far
He has to ride a trolley car,
But what won't eager young men do
To go the Hall of Learning through?"

THOMAS EVERHARD—"Tommy"

Gym 1, 3, Dramatic 3, 4

"The shiek of cheer and happiness,
The messenger of style,
No turbin pads his curly head,
He's wrapped up in a smile."

PEARL FETTER—"Toots"

Gym 1, 2, Nature Study 3, Research 4

"Explorers comb the bounding main,
Where waters leap and curl;
When we have that for which they seek,
We have a perfect Pearl."

EDWIN FRICKER—"Eddie"

Dramatics 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, Football 2, 4, 5

"If members of the weaker sex
Should vanish from the race
This lonely boy would suicide;
'Twould be a sorry case."

LETHA GALLATIN—"Lee"

Sewing 2, Nature Study 3, Commercial 4

"She represents fine country life
And fields of waving grain,
The beauty of the cloudless sky,
Of sweetness after rain."

ELIZABETH GLOVER—"Betty"

Gym 2, Dramatic 3, 4

"This gentle, unassuming maid
Wherever she may go,
Will scatter peace and happiness
As Heaven scatters snow."

GEORGE GOVE—"Govey"

Brewster; Football 4

"His modest nature tries to hide
The genius of a mighty mind,
But greatness seeks revealing light
And lets no cords its muscles bind."

MARGUERITE GRITTI—"Mike"

Orchestra 1, 2, 3, 4, Junior Chamber of Commerce 2

"She flits along in mirth and song
Without a thought of care,
And helps each friend his troubles send
Into the distant air."

MERVYN GROSJEAN—"Merv"

Nature Study 1, 2, Debate 3, 4, Junior Chamber of Commerce 2

"With his powers of persuasion,
I believe this young man can
Make an ugly little monkey
Pledge relationship to man."

AZALIA HALL—"Hally"

Glee 1, 2, 3, Commercial 4, Library 5

"Sweet Peace surrounds her like a Cloud,
Absorbing every care,
Allowing not an angry word,
Disturb the quiet air."

DELMAR HALPIN—"Halpie"

Gym 1, 2, 3, Basketball 4, Football 5

"A pal to anyone who needs
A loyal, trusty, friend;
No darkened evil ever shall
His honest purpose bend."

WILLIAM HARRIS—"Bill"

Football 3, 5, Stu. Mgr. Football 4

"The obstacles that bar his way,
Are stepping stones to him;
Across their steep and dizzy heights
He climbs with zeal and vim."

ERNEST HEISER—"Ernie"

Glee 1, Gym 2, Nature Study 3, Band 1, 3, 4

"No cords of precedence can bind
This lad, and make him sigh,
With earnest purpose straight and true,
He reaches for the sky."

MARGARET HEISLER—"Peg"

Gym 1, Dramatic 2, 3, 4, Student Council 2, 4

"As merry as a dervish maid,
And like a plant in bloom,
She whirls around this darksome sphere
Dispersing stagnant gloom."

LEO HELLINE—"Luke"

Gym 1, Annual Board 4, Camera 3, Orchestra 3, Class Pres. 3

"If music can with crafty art
The wild beast subdue,
This young man then could win success
Within a raging zoo."

LAVERNE HERBST—"Herbst"

Gym 1, Glee 2, 4, 5, Football 3, 4, 5

' "Disperse, Eternal Gloom" he cries,
As anger flashes from his eyes,
And as the snow by sunshine bright
Gloom always melts before his sight.'

THELMA HINES—"Thelma"

Nature Study 1, Debate 3, 4, Research 4

"Oh, she is most proficient
In telling all about
Some subject hard, concerning which,
She hasn't yet found out."

CHARLES HODGSON—"Chuck"

Gym 1, 3, Commercial 4

"A rusty tongue bespeaks a mind
That takes the hills on high,
And like the man who seeks success,
He has no time to sigh."

LUCILLE HORNE—"Cele"

Gym 1, Nature Study 2, Annual Board 4

"Oh, never haunting music
Did through one's being dart,
As her sweet solemn beauty
Vibrates upon one's heart."

IVAN HOSE—"Ive"

Gym 1, Nature Study 2, Debate 3, 4

"Quite far he looks and straight ahead
To where the highways blend,
Into one road, the road of love,
The path that has no end."

ELIZABETH HOUCK—"Babe"

Glee 1, Sewing 2, Commercial 3, 4, Library 5

"She babbles through the livelong day,
'Neath stormy sky and sun;
And, like the ever talking brook,
She never does get done."

EVELYN HUFF—"Ev"

Debate 3, Research 3, Commercial 4

"Oh, pulchritude has found his home
Within her lovely form,
Like bees around a budding tree
Sweet charms about her swarm."

CLARENCE HUMMEL—"Red"

Gym 2, 3, Football 4

"He's a King, for a glowing crown he wears
And its color is red, you can bet,
But it's not the crown that makes him King,
For he's a Poet Laureate."

KENNETH JACOBS—"Jake"

Gym 1, 2, 3, 4

"Methodical and trained in truth
He thinks before he speaks,
With measured step and steady stride,
An honest path he seeks."

MARIAN JACOBY—"Jakie"

Gym 1, 2, Nature Study 3, Research 4

"Now Marian is a modern girl
As natural as can be,
Likes to have things equal
A rather good trait—see?"

EVA JAGGERS—"Red"

Gym 1, 2, 3, 4

"We often wonder in our minds
Whene'er we think of her,
If on her family tree is carved
The name of Aaron "Burr."

JAMES JONES—"Jim"

Gym 1, 2, 3, Junior Chamber of Commerce 2

"Steadily he pursues his course
With but a little worry,
Will do big things in a quiet way
Without needless haste and flurry."

VIOLA KELLER—"Vi"

Gym 1, Library 3, 4, Research 3

"Now here's a young lady
Who is gentle and mild,
Tho' surrounded by books
She has ever a smile."

MILDRED KESTER—"Bob"

Nature Study 1, Gym 2, 3, Camera 4

"An awful tease, a peck of fun,
A loyal friend, a jolly chum,
Good in work, good in play,
First class in every way."

NONIA KING—"Nonia"

Glee 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, Student Council 3

"Only those who know her best
Can know her worth,
She's steady, helpful, tried and true
Always fond of mirth."

ANNA KIRVEN—"Sis"

Gym 2, 3, Commercial 4

"We like her smile, her helpful ways,
We're sorry she must leave,
Yet here's success where'er she be,
True worth cannot deceive."

JACK KLINGE—"Jack"

Cleveland; Gym 2, Glee 3, 4, Band 4, Orchestra 4

"This Senior looketh very wise
They say he knoweth much,
And doeth lots of other things,
Sings good songs, and such."

GLENN KRISHER—"Krish"

Gym 1, Football 2, 3, Nature Study 4

"The girls all like him, so do the boys.
Are lessons, or football, or girls his joys?
We're sure he's a winner, whichever it be
Just ask anyone, he is sure to agree."

MARGARET KRISHER—"Peg"

Gym 1, 2, 3, 4, Sewing 2, Debate 3, Com. 4

"Now Margaret has grace and looks
Is full of pep, and clever,
But try and ask her for a date
She'll say "No! No! Never."

MARJORIE KRISHER—"Midge"

Gym 1, 2, 3, 4, Sewing 2, Research 3, Annual Board 4

"From the lure of books she's turned away
And goes with the boys, so they say,
But a very good student is Marjorie,
She does all things with remarkable ease."

FLORENCE KRITES—"Kritzie"

Gym 2, 3, Commercial 4

"This fair maiden so demure
Is ever to the blues a cure,
And tho she isn't from town
She doesnt' fail to get around."

EMILY LIDDELL—"Shorty"

Junior Chamber of Commerce 2, Glee 3, 4. Student Council 3

"A hard worker is Emily,
Her studies were always first.
A consolation for later years
For not one does she shirk."

PAUL LIEBERMANN—"Baldy"

Gym 1, 2, Band 2, 3, 4, Glee 3, 4

"He shakes a wicked Ivory set
But not the African kind,
As fine a young fellow as you ever met
With a clever mirth-making mind."

WALTER LONGWORTH—"Pokie"

Gym 2, 3, Camera 4

"He's small but mighty
And liked by all,
You are sure to see him
In some study hall."

ROBERT MANG—"Bob"

Gym 1, 2, Glee 4, Annual Board 4

"Night after night he sits,
And blurs his eyes with books,
Then when examinations come
He doesn't need to look."

ALBERTA LIMBACH—"Al"

Gym 1, 2, 3, 4, Commercial 4

"Lots of friends, has enemies few.
Always does what she has to do.
That's Alberta—here's to you,
How we hate to say adieu."

FRANCES McALLISTER—"Fritz"

Gym 1, 2, Camera 3, Commercial 4

"Always gayly smiling
Ever ready and kind,
The kind of a person we look for
But very seldom find."

WILBUR LIPPS—"Fat"

Gym 1, 2, 3, Football 3

"A handsome big fellow
Whose voice is deep bass,
He tackles his studies
With gum in his face."

JOHN MEEK—"Johnnie"

Gym 1, 3, 4, Stu. Mgr. Basket Ball 5

"John is gentle, mild and meek,
One would judge him as a sheik,
Fond of all the classy clothes,
Makes a hit where'er he goes."

LESTER MONBARREN—"Les"

Gym 1, 2, 3, 4, 5

"Many odd sized feet he has spanned
With shoes that were easy on corns.
There's relieving the suffering of man
By the use of the tiny shoe horn."

MILDRED MOYER—"Millie"

Gym 1, 2, 3, Debate 3, 4

"In deep debates with teachers and such
She shows much brains and wit,
Jolly always and ever gay
Things worry her not a bit."

JOHN NOTMAN—"Notty"

Gym 1, Football 2, Glee 4, Dramatic 4, 5

"Talking is his hobby
It surely fits him fine,
Was never known to go to class
Without a good strong line."

LILLIAN ORTWEIN—"Lil"

Sewing 2, Research 3, Commercial 4

"A sparkling eye, a curly head,
Cupid bow lips, cherry red,
Always happy, fond of mirth,
A helpful friend, we know her worth."

ALICE MYERS—"Pat"

Orchestra 1, 2, Research 3, Commercial 4

"It is the heart and not the brain
That to the highest doth attain,
And he who followeth love's behest
Far exceedeth all the rest."

CARRIE OSBORNE—"Inspiration"

Reading 2, Debate 3, Annual Board 3, 4, Class Treasurer 4

"We'll miss her merry laugh and jest,
A classmate right with the best,
Long may her joyous laughter ring
And cheer and hope to others bring."

LORETTA MYERS—"Lottie"

Orchestra 1, 2, 3, 4, Glee 5

"Her voice was ever soft,
Gentle and low,
An excellent thing in woman
At least, I think so."

MELVILLE PFLUG—"Buzz"

Gym 1, 2, 3, Camera 4

"A dandy young fellow
Whom to know is to like,
And whatever he does
Is with all of his might."

MARION POLLOCK—"Pollock"

Gym 1, 2, 3, Commercial 4

"Truly a noble fellow is this
If you doubt just watch and see,
And in the years that are to come
Will a famous farmer be."

HARRY ROSS—"Dummy"

Dramatics 3, 4, Research 3, Band 4, Glee 4

"With fingers weary and worn,
With eyelids heavy and red,
He toiled with the problems of Physics,
While his schoolmates were sleeping in bed."

JOHN QUINN—"Rubber"

Student Council 1, 2, 3, 4, Gym 2, Stu. Mgr. Track 3, Stu. Mgr. Football 4, Class V. Pres. 3

"Who comes in thru the schoolhouse door
And, keeps his class in uproar,
But, never, never is a bore?"
John Quinn.

CLEMENTINE ROUNTREE—"Clem"

Gym 1, Library 3, Clinic 4

"A school girl quiet and attentive
To all that's found in books,
A mind that's clever and inventive
We judge, to view her looks."

ALICE REID—"Al"

Nature Study 2, Reading 3, Commercial 4

"Alice is admired by one and all,
And her friends are beyond a count,
She has a steady purpose and will,
And to great things some day will mount."

ANDREW ROUSH—"Andy"

Gym 1, 3, Track 2, 3, 4

"No sinner, nor saint perhaps,
But, well—the very best of chaps;
Always lively and full of fun,
In a hurry and on the run."

MILDRED ROBINSON—"Robby"

Gym 1, 2, Clinic 4, Research 4

"The light that lies in Mildred's eyes
She knoweth all about it,
She is full of chatter, humorous too,
An all 'round girl—who'd doubt it?"

WALTER ROUSH—"Walt"

Gym 2, 3, 4

"Now Walter is one of our Seniors
Whom we think may be called bright,
And nothing can injure his humor more
Than the mark, when it isn't right."

GLADYS ROWE—"Glad"

Navarre; Clinic 4

"Studious and gay is our Gladys,
Clever in all her tasks,
Ready to lend a helping hand
To everyone who asks."

CATHERINE SCHOEN—"Katrinka"

Reading 3, 4

"A very good student is Catherine,
And rather plain spoken at times,
But both are really much admired
She'll reach her goal in good time."

DONALD SCHAFFER—"Don"

Navarre; Orchestra 4

"In everything he does,
And that's quite a lot,
You can bank it's correct
From the start to the stop."

FLORENCE SCHRADER—"Flo"

Gym 1, Orchestra 2, 3, Research 3, Dramatics 4

"A very nice person to meet,
When you know her your friendship will grow,
She studies and in future years
May a governor make; who knows?"

FLOYD SCHLEGEL—"Scotty"

Gym 2, 3, 4, Glee 4

"Dark night a Ford,
Tempt not a witch,
High speed, a lurch,
Ford rolls in ditch."

HELEN SCHWARTZ—"Schwartzie"

Gym 1, Reading 2, Research 3, Clinic 4

"A studious little student
And a chummy little chum,
A pleasing disposition
And never, never glum."

MARIAN SCHNIERLE—"Snerley"

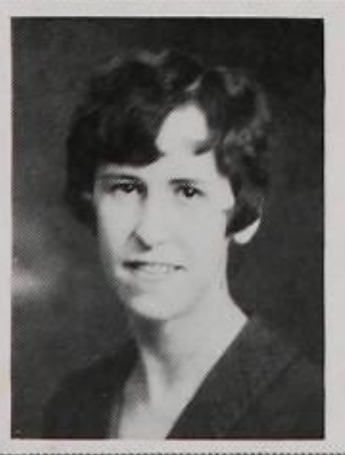
Gym 1, Library 3, 4, Research 3

"Here we have good looks
With ambition galore,
We hope she's successful
As in the days of yore."

BERNICE SEGEL—"Bee"

Pittsburgh; Glee 2, 3, Clinic 4

"Happy and gay is Bernice,
Studious without a doubt,
Always has a pleasant word
For everyone about."



JAMES SEIFERT—"Jim"

Gym 1, Camera 3, Band 3, 4, Annual Board 4

"His virtues are many
His faults hard to find,
A student, a joker,
And musician combined."

JENA SLUSSER—"Sheenie"

Glee 2, 3, Orchestra 3, 4, Class Secy. 1, 2

"Tho she is always gay
You can ever hear her say,
'My time is taken up with work
And no, I never, never flirt.' "

MARGARET SHILLING—"Peg"

Glee 1, 2, 3, 4, Library 5

"Now here's our sweet Margaret
We must not forget,
For she's a good student
And has lots of pep."

DOROTHY SMITH—"Dot"

Gym 1, Glee 2, 3, Research 4, 5, Clinic 5

"A direct descendant of John
But much better looking you see,
This added to what all she knows
Can only a great person be."

VAUGHN SHILLING—"Vaughn"

Gym 2, 3, Nature Study 3

"A jolly young chap
And, a good student too,
That's a recommendation
Reserved for the few."

ETHEL SMITH—"Smittie'

Canal Fulton; Research 4

"Ethel is good for the optics
She is tall and walks with much grace,
Is always up with her classes
And has a very pleasing face."

DONALD SLEMMONS—"Slim"

Navarre; Glee 4

"A tall slim blonde
A dandy fellow too,
We hope he is successful
In the things he's going to do."

HELEN SMITH—"Smittie"

Gym 1, 2, 3, 4, Commercial 3, 4

"Laughing blue eyes
And, healthy red cheeks,
But for a good description

LOIS SNYDER—"Lois"

Gym 1, 2, Art 3, Student Council 3, 4, Dramatics 4, Class President 4

"Lois always knows it
No matter what it be,
A very brilliant student
And a dandy looker—see?"

WILLARD STROBEL—"Bill"

Gym 1, 2, Dramatic 4, 5

Willard gets first prize,
A dandy disposition
And baby blue eyes."

BURDELL STAHL—"Burdie"

Gym 1, 2, 4, Commercial 4

"She'll do big things
In a quiet way,
Slowly but surely—
She traces her way."

ANNA SUTTON—"Ann"

Gym 1, 3, Cooking 2, Clinic 4

"Pshaw! Why worry of the future
The present is all thou hast,
For the future will soon be present,
And the present will soon be past."

RUTH STORCK—"Storky"

Glee 2, 3, 4

"Ruth is jolly,
She appreciates fun,
Is a helpful classmate
And a true blue chum."

ROBERT SWANEY—"Bob"

Gym 1, 2, 3, Student Council 4

"Quiet, ambitious, and trustworthy chap,
To know his hopes, consult the world's map."

FRANKLIN STRECKER—"Franky"

Gym 2, 3, Nature Study 4

And his time I think is well spent,
For he's going to be an auctioneer,
"No silent fellow is he,
I'm sure, if he follows his bent."

MARTHA SWIER—"Mart"

Glee 1, 2, 3, Clinic 4, Research 4

"A charming young lady
To see and to know,
You're sure to remember her
Wherever you go."

"Bright and snappy, mild blue eyes
Hope that reaches to the skies,
Character firm as solid rock
A sure sign of true blue stock."

NORMAN TOMBOW—"Norm"

Gym 1, 2, 3, Commercial 4, 5

"Norman is quiet and very neat
Always ready his tasks to meet,
Has his lessons every day
A nice young fellow, in every way."

CHARLES VAN FOSSEN—"Chuck"

Gym 1, Glee 3, Debate 3, Annual Board 4

"The beauty of a stately tree
The buzzing of a busy bee,
To him is coin and food and drink
Of Nature's chain each forms to link."

HELEN VITAK—"Vitty "

Gym 1, 2, 3, 4, Jr. Chamber of Commerce 2, Commercial 3, 4

"Friendly and peppy and jolly is she
Her laugh it faileth never,
Her way is kind, her voice is clear
And maketh music ever."

KATHERINE WALMER—"Kay"

Nature Study 2, Camera 3, 4, Research 4

"She's quiet and modest
And always serene,
With a smile on her face
Where ere she is seen."

ROBERT WEINRICH—"Bob"

Gym 2, Camera 3, 4, Glee 3, Class Treas. 3

"Burns said that man was made to mourn
But Bob says that its girls,
He ought to know, he's made them weep
With his smiles and golden curls."

HELEN J. WHITE—"Whitie"

Gym 1, Jr. Chamber of Commerce 2, Debate 4, Clinic 4

"I'm dreaming dreams of wonderful things
When the man of my heart arrives,
When he's bringing home the bacon
I'll be baking pies."

FLORENCE WHITMORE—"Flossie"

CHARLES HAX, PRES. — MARTINA BRENNER, SEC'Y

MADGE BARR, V. PRES. — RAYMOND WENDLING, TREAS.

There was a town in the county of Stark,
Made famous by many a W. H. S. shark;
The river Tusc, deep and wide,
Washed its walls on the western side;
A pleasanter spot you never spied:
But when begins my ditty,
Almost three long years ago,
To see the school folk suffer so
From Freshmen, was a pity.

Freshies!
They marked the desks and broke the chairs,
And caused the teachers to get grey hairs,
By drowning their speaking
With shrieking and squeaking
In fifty different sharps and airs.

At last the school-folk in a body,
To the Board Hall came flocking;
"'Tis clear" cried they "our board's a noddy;
And as for our regulations, shocking,"
At this the Board of Education
Quaked with a mighty consternation.

For hours they sat in council,
At length the President broke the silence:
"Oh for a plan, plan, plan!"
Just as he said this, what should happen!
At the chamber door, but a gentle bang?

"Come in," cried the President, looking bigger,
And in did come the straightest figure!
His neat school coat from hip to head
Was colored black with stripe of red;
And short light hair, yet florid skin,
No tuft on cheek or beard on chin,
And nobody could enough admire
The straight man and his neat attire.

He advanced to the council table:
And, "Please your honors," said he I'm able,
By means of a secret plan,
To relieve your halls of this terrible jam."
So the present Junior class
Was the last to make up the Freshman mass.

When sophomores, we were not so green,
As present sophomores truly seem;
As Juniors we are further proving our worth,
By our studiousness, brains, our brawn and our mirth;
And next year we will surprise the world
With our 27 banner to all unfurled.

So here's to the Seniors, they are a good class
And here's to the Sophs, they have taken our sass,
And here's to the Juniors, may they forever
Be as one,—whom the years cannot sever. sever.

The Babes in the Woods
Poor babes in the woods!
Poor babes in the woods!
O, don't you remember
The babes in the woods?

The poor, poor sophs! We are stranded in our High School almost exactly as the proverbial babes were in the forest. We wander from one sylvan-dell of the huge High School woods not knowing where to turn for aid.

As we roam helplessly around, we see—O, my goodness! what is that? We cry, but in terror, for this creature is so large. It seems to be an enormous man in armor and as we stare, it gradually takes the shape of Julius Caesar and becomes much smaller and less formidable under the soothing influence of the body guard of English and Latin teachers.

Just as we have recovered from this fright, we see something that nearly takes our breath away and we really feel quite faint. This time it is a prodigious creature which seems to be composed of angles, triangles, and parallelograms with a large circle on top! We simply cannot imagine what it is until some of us spy a little Blue Book tagging along behind and then we know it for that "awful" Geometry!

Soon, out of one of the by-ways of the forest-school, winces a man somewhat smaller than the rest of these terrible creatures. He has black hair, a black Van Dyke beard, and very white, gleaming teeth. He is smiling and nodding pleasantly as he says, "Parlez-vous francais?" We at once know this man to represent France and the French language.

At last, as we are recovering from our various scares, we see a group of some thirty girls tripping through the forest talking and laughing gayly. But, when they see us, their expressions change to pity and they pick us up (all these creatures being Brobdingnagians) and comfort us and tell us not to be afraid. Now, who do you suppose these girls are? Why, the Big Sisters, of course! They are the guiding stars to the girls, at least, and are the ones who help us to become good Juniors.

God's First Temples

(Winner of Davey Scholarship Essay Contest of Stark County)

One of the greatest social, industrial and economic factors of a nation is its forests, for their influence is vital in providing us with both food and water, with clothes, shelter, and recreation, and with means of transportation and education, since they save the soil, protect the birds, conserve the water supply, and provide for hunting, fishing, and camping. Moreover the leaves give off moisture which regulates the humidity of the atmosphere, and prevents drouths and sudden and extreme changes in temperature. Shall we then destroy the trees, a greatly dissipated natural resource, affecting every home in the nation, and have industrial chaos?

In order to maintain her national superiority, the United States must reforest her idle and waste land, now nearly two hundred million acres. Our industrial center, located in the Eastern States, annually spends millions of dollars to transport lumber from the west. To meet this demand for lumber, to preserve our navigable rivers, to provide means of recreation and education, and to promote human happiness, all available land, especially in the east, must be reforested, and our native woodlands must be protected, so that they will yield a continuous crop, with natural reseeding.

The greatest forest menace, fire, often caused by human dereliction, destroys what has taken years to develop. Fire in the forest also kills or seriously injures wild animals; kills birds, the useful guardians of trees and crops; destroys winter feed for animals; and makes an end of gushing springs, clear water fish food, and good fishing.

Trees should be grown, cared for, and protected the same as any other crop for they are just as important. Raw wood is now used in more than fifteen hundred different forms, and chemical research is constantly finding new uses for it. Creative Chemistry shows us that the age of wood is not behind us, but that it lies ahead of us. The government, by educating the public in forestry, by providing young seedlings at small cost, by having a low tax rate on growing timber, and by providing ample fire protection, should encourage farmers to plant private forests, to help in developing poor agricultural land.

Dr. Joseph T. Rothrock, said "The utter removal of forests marks the beginning of desolation and the disappearance of man's powers over nature." This statement has been verified by the results of deforestation in Spain and China. Shall we then maintain our national supremacy, or rank with Spain and China; shall we have singing birds or solitude; green-clad hills or stony mounds; gurgling brooks or arid wastes; teeming wilds or barren plains; a fruitful nation or a destitute people? Shall we in short destroy the forests, "God's First Temples?"

Each day in our school we find incidents which make our school life more happy and interesting. Most of the time the students enjoy these little entertainments or occasions and do not know that their source is the Student Council. This organization consists of twenty-four members of the various classes and two faculty members.

The Student Council does its work by committees which are chosen by the president of the council. The chapel committee takes care of our special chapels and Wednesday chapels. The committee for the Christmas Seal Campaign was the group of people who supervised that large undertaking and helped make it a success.

The student body this year asked the council to appoint a committee which was to decide our school seal. The Poster Committee is the committee that serves as an executive head for the poster work of our school. The council also has a flower and shrubbery committee which sends flowers to the sick and provides shrubbery to beautify our lawn. The Patron's Reception is really one of the hardest jobs of the Student Council. This organization planned and undertook the task of making our reception this year one of the best the school has ever had.

As the year passes, many new duties and problems arise for the council, but its members are always ready and willing to serve.

The Commercial Club is an organized group consisting of Seniors. Its purpose is to acquaint the Commercial student with the problems, requirements, and conditions of the commercial world.

This Club meets every other week. Its programs are planned wholly by the students and each one takes an active part some time during the year. The programs are arranged to help the student gain speed and accuracy in typewriting and shorthand. The office appliances of the modern office are explained and sometimes used. Insights into business practices, relations, and transactions are given by very interesting talks from leading business men of Massillon.

Since the time in class is too short to allow attention to be given to these points, the Commercial Club feels that this is a successful way of becoming more proficient as a stenographer or bookkeeper.

Through the Commercial Club, pleasant contacts are made between the members and the supervisors. This undoubtedly makes the year of club work a very profitable and pleasant one.

Have you ever seen a girl of sixteen transformed, within five minutes, into a perfectly beautiful old lady, with white hair, or a youth of the same age, although not admitting it, remodeled into a stout, tin-eared gent of sixty-five with uncertain teeth? Have you ever seen a modern stage converted into an old fashiond garden or a pirate-ship? These are just a few of the marvels performd by the Struts and Frets.

All the plays which the Dramatic Club put on this year seemed to be a great success. Not many of the students of W. H. S. or the citizens patronizing the Dramatic Club plays will ever forget Aunt Abby's keen interest in the organizations for dumb animals and the unintelligent, or the happy smile on Eva's face when she was giving Adam a bite of her apple.

The fundamental purpose of the Dramatic Club is to give poise, culture and self-assurance to the students, so that they may be better prepared to mix with all types of people in the world. While certain students from the High School are deriving this good from the Dramatic Club, the High School as a body is not only being entertained by the plays but also has a chance to come in contact with good drama.

The purpose of Washington High's Debate Club is to teach students to analyze a given proposition, to arrange their thoughts in logical order, to conduct themselves properly on the platform, to think on their feet, and to express their thoughts in appropriate English.

The particular purpose of the Club for this year has been to establish debating relations with other schools. Although the decisions of the judges in the debates in which we have engaged have not been in our favor, except in the Washington High vs. New Philadelphia debate, we do not believe we have been wholly the losers. We have not only learned how to compile much material, but we have become experienced in the art of public speaking.

We, the Debate Club of 1925-26 look forward to the future success and progress of this organization.

From the dawn of literature to the present time, nature has been a favorite theme of poets. Poets everywhere have found truth and beauty in the sky, the hills, the birds, and the flowers. Wordsworth, the great nature poet, writes so beautifully of the common flower, the daffodil, that we through reading his poem, see with him, a vision of a field of dancing daffodils. And Joyce Kilmer, one of our modern poets, has given us a glorified idea of our common trees. Birds, also, have had their share in poetry, since Shelly has made immortal the skylark, and Bryant, the waterfowl.

Now, we as members of the Nature Study Club, do not profess to have minds to write poetry, nor the hearts of poets. We, nevertheless, fully appreciate the privilege we have of learning more about trees, birds, and flowers.

Our aim this year has been primarily the study of birds. During the fall we studied the causes of bird migration, including in this some of the migratory species and where they spend the winter. Later during the winter a study was made of some of our winter residents, their habits, methods of feeding, and the necessity of caring for them. At the opening of spring and the returning of our birds, attention was given to identification and nesting habits. Through pleasant evenings of study and discussion, we feel that we have accomplished this aim.

Seeing the usefulness of the camera in every-day life, nearly all the high schools have adopted a study of its principles. And this, the second year of Washington Hi's Camera Club, has accomplished a very extensive course, owing to the purchasing of an experimental equipment at the beginning of the term. Developing has been one of the special features of this year's work. Besides experimental work, the physics and chemistry of the camera have been studied in detail, which now enables the student to obtain the best pictures at any time, at any place, and under any conditions.

In addition to extensive study, our club has always lent a willing hand to the school's activities, such as the Seal Campaign at Christmas time. Then too, we with our Faculty Advisor, firmly believed that "all work and no play makes Johnny a dull boy," so often we enjoyed ourselves at parties and on out-door trips. Therefore, we club members believe that our club is an asset to the school, because it furnishes knowledge, helps in the school's activities, and is a source of pleasure.

"To clap your felt, and, simply by wishing that you were Anywhere, straightway to be There! Next, to clap on your felt, and simply by wishing that you were Anywhen, straightway to be Then!"

Thos. Caryle.

And so it is with the Magic Hatters, for thus we have acquired our name.

Ah! We put on one hat and wish ourselves back in the past, and behold, we go back with Cervantes and his "Don Quixote," back into Spain during the Middle Ages. But lo! We are no longer in Spain. We wish again and Grueher takes us to Ancient Greece and Rome. Now we are with Hugo and his "Les Miserables," in the France of long ago. The present every proves interesting. Even the future does not elude our magic touch; for with H. G. Wells and other authors we go into the Land of Tomorrow.

Again we put in our hats, but this time we wish ourselves anywhere. Hence! We are in the wilds of Africa, now in far away Labrador, but better still in the jungles of Brazil.

Thus adventure, romance, love the supernatural, mysterious, and historical element; in fact, the best Literature is brought before us by the Reading Club.

Only those who have participated in the activities of this club can fully realize the pleasure and value it offers to the student. During the past year we of the Reading Club have all endeavored to become better acquainted with, and more interested in the world's best Literature.

Above you will find a motley crowd consisting of both girls and boys who have started on a job quite new and interesting. Library work is not a fad, instead it means nothing less than real hard work.

We must spend two hours a week at the library, doing such things as filing, indexing, and mending books. We take them to the hospital where they receive a variety of treatment, such as giving them new backs, new covers, and patching them in general.

Next comes the work at the desk. If the old world seems in a hurry, we can not afford to become nervous. We must not ask the librarian endless questions. We are trained to use our own initiative. We must satisfy the citizen asking for books.

So, here we are, ever at your service.

Educational products are for the purpose of giving somebody knowledge of something he wants to know. The something may be difference or relation. The person may be a scientific worker, a superintendent, a teacher, a parent, or pupil. The knowledge may be exact or general according to the amount of difference or relation. Superintendent and principals are measuring school products and judging the work by what the teachers accomplish. Their supervision is including more and more work of this kind. The call is for workers who are willing to avail themselves of the opportunity and to collect necessary data. The measurement work of the future will be so refined that it will be possible to measure the ability to attack new situations, clearness of insight, and inferences in different fields of knowledge. Bureaus of Educational Research in cities have become centers for the collecting data. This is done generaly by devising, scoring, tabuating, and interpreting standardized tests.

The greatest difficulty that the department encounters is the problem of grading papers. It is more important to score the papers than to give the tests. The members of the Research Club have rendered splendid service in grading papers.

Children who are conspicuously low in any subject, need to have work planned specially for them. Other members have given invaluable service in carrying out planned work for the improvement of instruction.

"Where did you go when you left the study hall this morning?"

"I had a toothache so I went to the Clinic. The girls surely can take care of a person down there." This conversation, overheard in the north corridor of Washington Hi, shows that the splendid treatment received in the Clinic is genuine and appreciated.

The Clinic is a new club which has been organized for the purpose of giving first aid to any person needing immediate attention. This year there are enrolled in this club twenty-eight girls. There are four shifts of seven periods to correspond with the seven periods of the school day. Each girl of the club has charge of the hospital room for one week out of every four. Unless first aid is required by someone entering the room, the girl in charge studies as she does in the study hall, where she spends her period on the days of the remaining three weeks.

The lessons of first aid are taught every Monday from three-twenty to three-fifty. These sessions are shared by all the members, and are presided over by the school nurse, Miss Mary Metz, who has complete charge of this new organization. The lessons Miss Metz teaches are the primary features to be learned by any first-aid pupil.

This new club, in doing the work which has been assigned, hopes to promote the welfare of the school as a whole, and to give service.

This year the Girls' Glee Club has been very successful. The purpose of this club is to promote and create a desire for the better class of music among the girls. Although this club has met the first period of every Tuesday and Thursday morning, thereby, taking time from regular studies, the time used in practice has been well spent.

After many weeks of hard work the club made its first appearance in chapel during the football season. Together with the Orchestra, the Girls' Glee Club has furnished music for the Patrons' Reception, and at Christmas time acted as a choir for the chapel service. During the Christmas holidays two of our girls took part in the State Conference at Columbus. Perhaps our best work was shown when we, with the Boys' Glee Club and the Band, gave a concert in the early spring.

Our work has been educational as well as interesting and we sincerely hope that next year's club will enjoy its work as much as we have ours.

Among the clubs that were organized in September, we find the Boys' Glee Club. This club, having been organized the previous year, commenced work with some valuable old material. The new members seemed very promising. Practise was held the first period on Monday and Wednesday of each week. The club immediately went to work, and in chapel on November 5, it made its first appearance in a joint program with the Girls' Glee Club.

The veteran Quartet immediately went to work and soon had some clever songs ready to present whenever called upon. The popular four presented themselves at the Canton-Massillon football rally and Patrons' reception, always pleasing the listeners.

After a long absence the Glee Club again appeared, this time in a joint program with the Girls' Glee Club. It has always been a pleasure to us to entertain the student body, and we hope W. H. S. has profited by us.

"The man that hath not music in himself,
And is not moved by concords of sweet sounds,
Is fit for treason, stratagems, and spoils;
Let no man trust him."

Shakespeare.

The orchestra this year has shown its loyalty toward the school by its consistent effort in making the orchestra a success. The orchestra meets twice a week to practice and develop the ability and talent of the members and make it a well balanced organization.

This organization played at occasions connected with the school activities; such as the debates staged by our debaters and the plays presented by the Dramatic Club. The orchestra also did its part at Christmas when all students were interested in fighting tuberculosis. The service the orchestra rendered at the commencement exercises was invaluable.

But the chief aim of the orchestra has been to help keep up the old Washington High School spirit which all loyal supporters cherish, and for which W. H. S. has been known for many years.

Washington High has a band and a real band it is. What would the various activities be like without "Our Band?" It has risen from a small inactive club to one one of the school's best, and is now a most necessary part of good old W. H. S. And it has been said it is the only band known that is able to play two pieces at once and get away with it.

It played at all the football and home basketball games and for the second time gallantly took part in the Armistice Day Parade and played in Chapel on November 18. During the spring the Band with other musical organizations of the school furnished a most delightful program, playing several selections which are only samples of the high class music it is playing. The band is unusually well balanced this year because of the enlarged reed and alto sections. In May the band jorneyed to Mansfield and participated in the Ohio State Band Contest.

The business men of Massillon again this year nobly aided the band, in sending it to the Erie game and outfitting it with 35 wool jerseys whcih are worn under the capes.

Students in the grades are beginning the study of the band instruments; and with players of greater experience, the band will grow in power of expression from year to year, and will strive for that organ-like quality which distinguishes the real band from amateurs. No work in the school has more application in both the vocational and avocational fields.

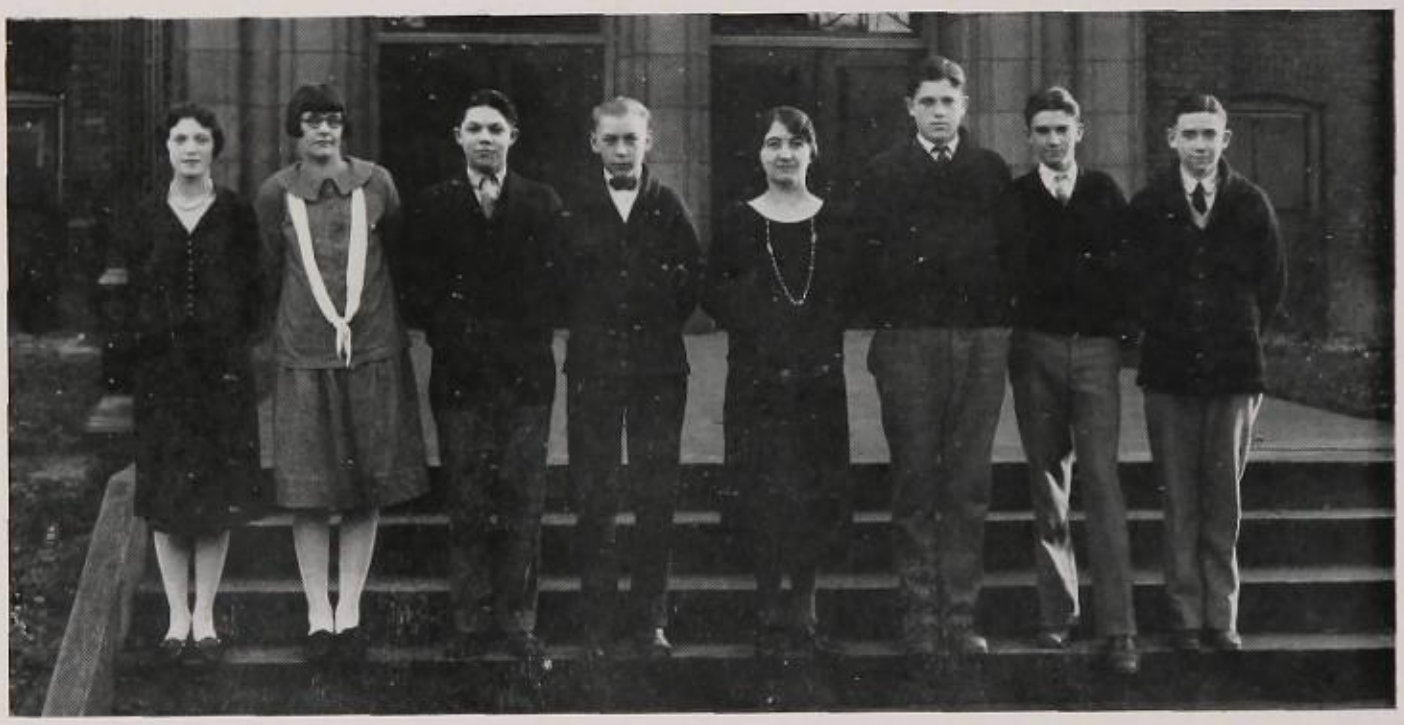
Poster Club



Ruth Tripcony, Audrey Naas, James Copeland, Andrew Merrell, Harriet Davis, Faculty Advisor; Albert Dewald, Roland Brown, Harold Maughiman.

Washington High School is noted for its great variety of clubs—clubs in which each student may develop his own talents. The Poster Club is no exception to the rule. This club has work to do throughout the year, from the beginning of Football season, through Basketball, Baseball and Track.

Outside of athletics, many other activities of the school, such as Dramatics and Red Cross Seal Campaign are furthered by the Poster Club.

Probably there is nothing that will arouse the curiosity of a student more than a poster portraying some coming event.

Each year, a small group of students and teachers spends much time and work in an endeavor to bring before the student body a book faithfully portraying school activities and school life. This group is known as the Annual Board. The board is composed of thirteen members including two faculty advisors. The work of this board comprises a multitude of different duties, which are encountered in compiling a book of this kind.

At the beginning of the school year each member does his separate task, but as the time of "going to press" draws near, the board, as a whole, works together in compiling the annual. When the annual is completed it is sold to the students or anyone wanting to buy one at a price not to exceed $1.40; making the book, when material and workmanship are taken into consideration, a rare bargain.

The board gives the best it has each year to produce a better annual. It is always to be hoped that each future board will accomplish this aim, until the Massillonian has reached perfection. As a step in this stairway leading to perfection, the Annual Board of 1926 submits its 1926 Massillonian.

Girls' Gym

"All work and no play makes Jean a dull girl," is just as true as the old proverb about Jack. Accordingly, the play to be combined with school studies appears in the form of Gym work. Gym, with its many features, aside from promoting health and vigor among the girls, has made school life so much more enjoyable for them.

For the sake of anyone not acquainted with the activities of gym, let us visit a class on Tuesday or Thursday in the girls' gym of Washington High. With the sound of the whistle, the girls fall into line. The roll is called. A command follows and the black and white dressed line swings with the rythm of the parts of a machine. To the sound of music the girls march off, in single file, then by twos and fours. The girls find their places to engage in a quaint Russian folk dance. They next dance some other rustic dances. After the dances comes the command to fall into line and the girls are dismissed.

So the program continues day after day, but so varied, that gym is never tiresome. Then, too, the music in the gym work is no small item contributing to the pleasure of the girls. Also the teamwork necessary in gym teaches a valuable lesson of the need of teamwork in play as well as in work.

So, although the city girl cannot always enjoy the great freedom of out-door life, she can, nevertheless, have some of its sports and exercises on the gym floor.

And so for the sake of the health and the grades,
The teamwork and pleasures gained by the maids;
May the gym work in all schools never die
And especially prosper in Washington High.

The benefits derived from gymnasium work of previous years have shown with such luster, that physical training for all Sophomore boys remains on a required basis. Many Juniors and Seniors have shown a preference to the gymnasium club, and these, together with the Sophomores, comprise a total of 247; this number being divided into 20 classes, each class meeting twice a week. Realizing the necessity of diversified training, general classes in gymnasium have been introduced with basketball predominating as the leading sport.

With our excellent faculties for all forms of athletic activities, friendly animosity has risen among the classes and accordingly, a track class meet is being arranged for the near future. If possible a cross-country meet is to take place at the end of the second semester, each class to enter any number of entries and points varying from 10, 8, 6, etc., to be given to each participant of a several group of five, as they finish. In this class competition, a cup will be given to the class having the most points.

The physical director's room was a point of great importance to the boys this year. Much interesting reading material was to be found there, and many fine points pertaining to athletics were written upon the blackboard.

Thus with this science of the athletic activities obtained from literary reading, and with the practical knowledge which is found to be prevalent upon the gym floor, it is reasonably to be expected that the Youth of Washington High was set upon the right path this year, to a strong, clean, and moral life.

ATHLETICS

Football

It has always been the purpose of Washington High, no matter what the score of a season's work may show, to play the game fairly, squarely and honorably. More than ever do we feel that we have achieved this ambition this year. We did not win every game, we did not lose every game, although we have eight splendid victories to our credit; but we are quite sure that as far as good sportsmanship and clean playing go, we can be justly proud of the team.

Severely handicapped all season by the worst football weather we've had in years, the team from the onset gave steady proof of its magnificent grit and unconquerable will.

It gave its best, all it had, without flinching, which is a record no team, however great, can beat. The student body did its best to imitate the splendid example set by the boys, making the 1925 season worth remembering by everyone.

Everything has not been smooth sailing. The team met with more than one serious difficulty but has bravely faced them, pushed them into the background.

The season was also a good experience for the boys. Difficulties to overcome, defeats to be regretted, and glorious victories over which to rejoice have made better men of them. So, all in all, Washington High can hold her head high with the knowledge of a splendid team and a splendid season in every respect.

Basketball

Washington High School's basketball season for 1926 can be labelled a success if for no other reason than the orange and black's brilliant 24 to 14 victory over Canton McKinley in the final game of the campaign, the first Massillon triumph over a Canton team since 1918. But the Canton victory is not only the reason the season was a success; for the orange and black squad was returned victorious in 10 of its 16 scholastic contests. This is a better record than a Massillon scholastic basketball team has made in many years. When the call for candidates was issued only three letter men from last year's squad were available; however, about 85 candidates turned out.

A new system was started this year in having a Reserve Squad. This squad was made up of lower classmen so as to build for the future. It had a regular schedule and played the preliminary to the varsity game, and in most cases its opponents were the Reserves of the teams played by the varsity. Some very promising players were brought out of the squad, most of whom are Sophomores. With the experience the boys received this year they should develop into a wonderful basketball team for 1927.

Track

Track is one of the most interesting sports in Athletics today. Although it has not played a big part in the Athletics of Washington High School, it ranks the highest in showing what kind of a star each individual can be. Track is different from all other sports for the simple reason that in these sports the teams as a whole work together to reach their goals, but track has its individual stars. Every man on a track team gives all he has to win, even from his best friend. In this division of Athletics if a man wins a first place, he is not satisfied, but practices all the harder to accomplish more and to establish a new record.

A track athlete is always looking forward to the day when he will be noted for the record he set in this division of athletics. There is only one comparison one can make between this sport an those that have meant so much to this school, that is, that the training rules are practically the same. All that one can possibly get out of these activities is what one puts into them. This is the kind of sport that keeps one's nerves on edge all the time, and one's heart beating fast, wondering what the outcome will be. There is never a second during a track and field meet that is not enjoyable. One's enthuisiasm is aroused from start to finish. We have the material in the good old W. H. S. and hope some day that this sport will rank as high as the other activities of the school.

A senior girl, on the opening day of school, steps over the threshold of Washington High with an air of confidence born of experience. Not so with the new girl, the Sophomore. She is filled with a feeling of apprehension, of dread over facing the difficulties incident to registration in Senior High. How can she possibly arrange her schedule? How will she be able to find the various classrooms? How will it be possible for her to approach her teachers?

That the girls, upon entering school, might be relieved of all such misgivings, there was launched for the first time last September, the Big Sister Movement.

Last June, thirty-five Senior girls were selected to take charge of the Sophomore girls for the following school year. During the summer vacation, these Seniors became acquainted, either by letter or by social visit, with their own individual group of girls. Hence, at the beginning of the school year, there was little, if any, feeling of dread among the new girls. Each Senior girl acted the part of a truly big sister in taking under her guidance three girls, who have throughout the year, been regarded as her little sisters.

Under the auspices of the Big Sisters, a "Get Acquainted" meeting was held in the Girls' Gymnasium in early September. The party was a great step towards bringing the girls together. The cordial relations then established between the two groups of girls have, in most instances, continued throughout the year.

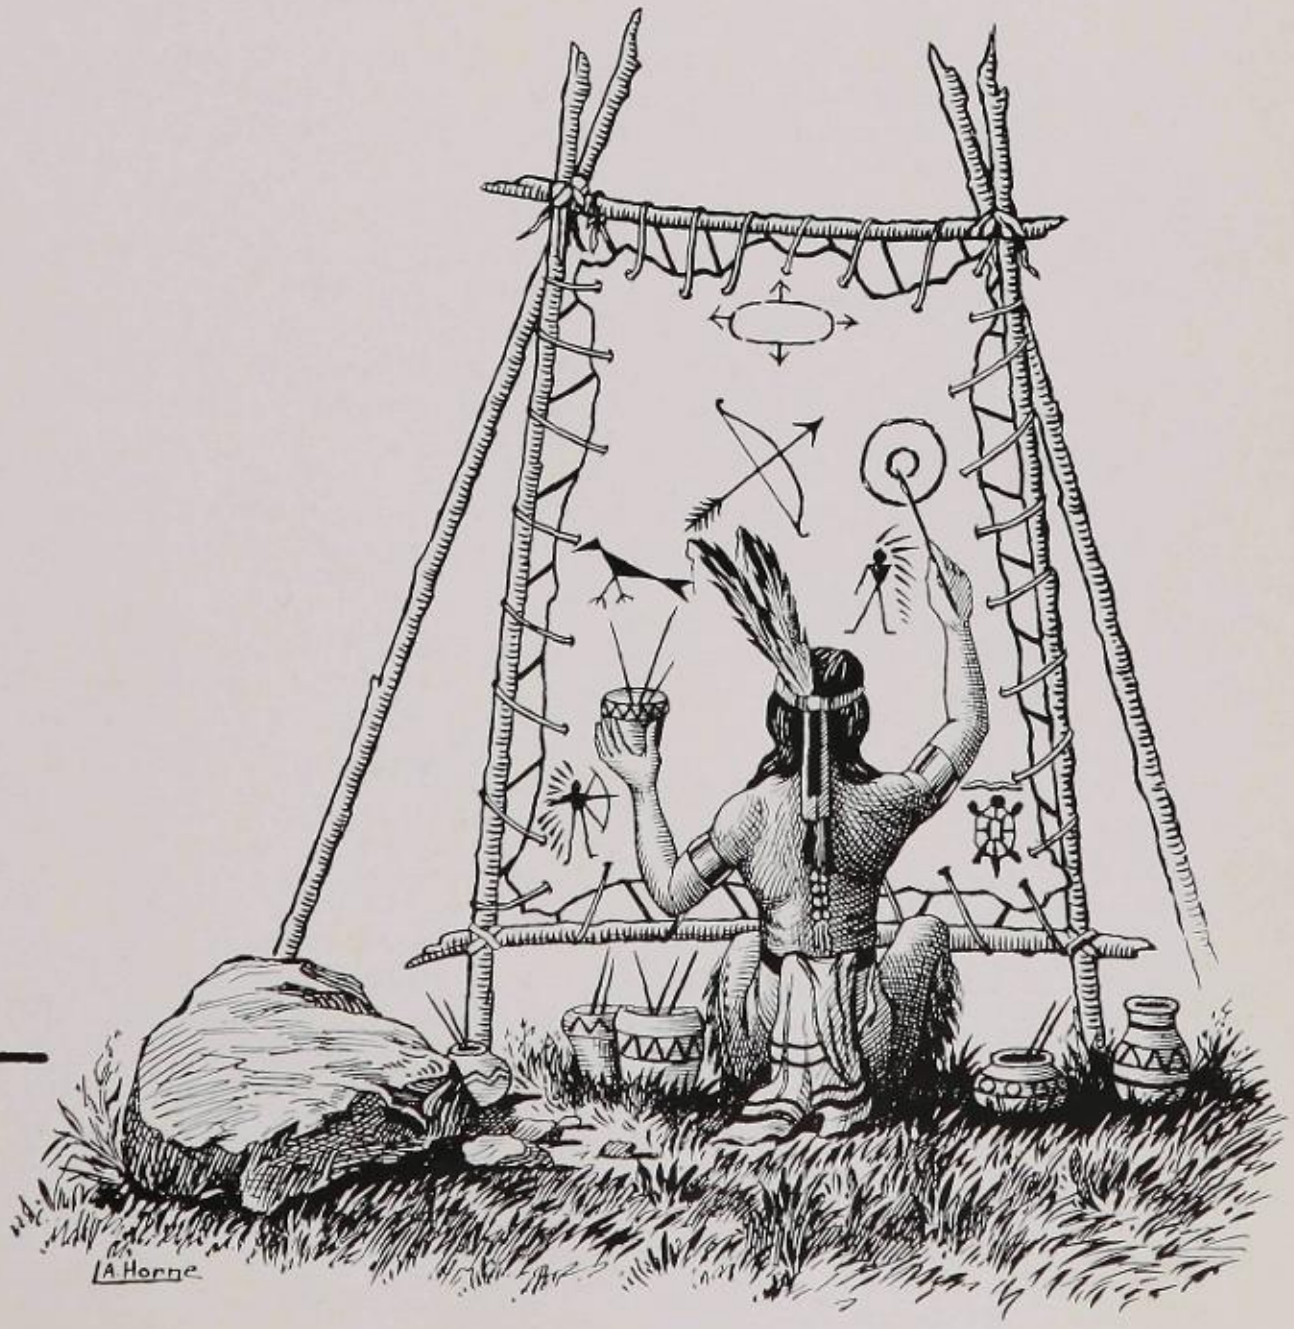
ACTIVITIES



Much interest in poetry has been aroused in the Senior English Classes and by Mr. Layton, through a contest conducted under his direction. The judges, who were members of the faculty, received many good poems; the styles and subjects differed to such an extent that it was decided that the first place should be awarded to two productions: "Spring" by Clarence Hummel, and "Lonesome Lak" by Eleanor Eayrs. From the others which were submitted a number selected as being worthy of special mention. The Annual Board is very happy to be able to print a few of the many good poems received.

Spring

O' come, with me, this bright spring day,
And we shall while the hours away
  Across the hills where flowers grow
  And streams through ardent valleys flow
The smiling sun, with friendly ray,
Behind a hill betakes his way,
  And then across its rocky brow
  He beams and makes his morning bow.

A robin from a leafy spray
Recites for me his lyric gay,
  While from a berry bush there floats
  Another songester's throbbing notes,
Across the blue and distant sky
The fluffy fleets of cloudland lie
  In wait for friends with whom to roam
  Across the sea of Heaven's dome.

Within a vale before my eyes
The kingdom of a farmer lies.
  Far down the lane the cattle go,
  And form a long and straggling row.
Behind the herd a farmer boy
Informs the world of sprightly joy,
  While at his heels a shaggy dog
  His way pursues with steady jog.

Along a streamlet's course I stray
And listen to its music gay.
  Within its waters cool and deep
  The hungry minnows dart and leap,
And flowers bright along the stream
Lend beauty to its sparkling gleam,
  While overhead the verdent trees
  Their branches bend to every breeze.

Beneath an elm's enticing shade
I lie, while through the leafy glade
  The fairy breezes dance and sing
  A song of praise to happy spring.
A zephyr's soft and sweet caress
Benumbs my soul with laziness,
  Until I can no longer keep
  My senses, and fall fast asleep.

When I awake, the crimson sun
Lies in the west, his labor done,
  And every hill and rocky spire
  Is bathed in sheets of liquid fire.
The cooing dove and fragrant sod
Reflect the handiwork of God.
  Across the fields of upturned loam
  I slowly trace my footsteps home.

I thank the good and gracious Lord
For that enduring, weblike cord
  Which binds me to his children free—
  The stately oak, the bird, the bee—
And sets my throbbing heart atune
With twinkling stars, with silv'ry moon,
  Whose effervescent visage gleams
  And fills with cheer my golden dreams.

Jes fo' you;
Don' know 'zackly what 'tis
'Cept' ah's blue.
De doctah say 'taint nothin' wrong,
Ah jes' can't seem ter get along
'Thout you.

De chelluns all so bright an' gay,
Jes' lak' you,
Set my soul a' wishin' dat
Ah was through.
If ah waits heah day by day
Meb' de Lawd'll take me 'way
To you

So heah ah sets all mo'nful lak—'
Jes' for you;
Ah don't want ter live no mo'
Ah wants you.
Say—can't you' heah me callin' loud?
Don' mah prayer come thru' dat cloud

Jesus Christ

I look with tears upon the cross
That stands on Calvary.
It towers to the sombre sky
A rough and rugged tree.
I weep, for Christ is on that cross
To bleed and die for me.

His wounded head hangs on His breast,
'Tis bowed in bitter pain.
The tortured body scarcely can
The agony endure.
Without a sigh and scarce a cry
The Lamb of God is slain.

There Jesus finished His great work;
And, lifting up his eyes,
"Into Your hands I place my soul,
O Father", loud He cries.
And having all the ransom paid,
He bows His head and dies.

I know my tears cannot repay,
What you have done for me.
Yet, Jesus, shall I never cease
To thank on bended knee
That Thou hast died upon the cross
On distant Calvary.

Adolescence

I cannot tell where child-hood ends
And one becomes a man,
Time so smoothly pours the sands
That bury the boyish clan.

Drifting along from day to day,
Happy—and sometimes sad;
Its only when I do not grin,
I'm sure I never was a lad.

Yet when I see a fishing rod,
Or finger with delight
A cloudy agate cold, and hard,
That started many a bloody fight—

Its then I thrill with youthful dreams
And know I'll never be the man,
For who can tell where child-hood ends
And one becomes a man?

Plucky 'Possum

A 'possum's got more natural pluck
Than all the rest of his kin.
It matters not how tough his luck,
He bears it with a grin.

The weather may get awful rough,
And persimmons disappear,
But, even then, he has grit enough
To grin from ear to ear.

Old Shep may yelp upon his trail
And tree him up a pine,
And you can carry him by his tail
And still his teeth will shine.

The dog may push him very tight,
And catch him on the ground
And shake him to his heart's delight,
Then lay him sadly down,

And he'll appear to you to be
A feeling mighty shame—
But if you look right close you'll see
He is grinning, just the same.

A Trial

Poets write of various things,
"Of ships and shoes and sealing wax,
Of cabbages and kings."
Some write of beasts in droves and packs,
Of blushing brides and knaves;
Of trusty monarchs who have died,
Of wedding bells and caves;
Of noble lands of pilgrims' pride
Of which the nations sing.
But even though I've tried and tried,
I just can't write a thing.

Of ships an kings I've often heard,
And sealing wax I've seen.
I've even read of beast and bird
And cabbages so green.
I've read of monarchs and of caves,
Of fairies in the spring.
I'll bear their memories to the grave,
But, I can't write a thing.

—Florence Schrader '26.

Attempts

O Muse, be kind to me today,
For woe is me.
It seems so hard for me to write
What is to be.

I sit and think and waste my time,
But what's the use?
It seems you have deserted me,
O fickle Muse!

And yet as I keep writing
I make a verse.
And, while it's not a classic,
It might be worse.

—Marian Schnierle '26.

My Wish

I've often thought I'd like to go
To all the foreign lands I know.
To Enlgand, land of those great men
Who gave us treasures with the pen;
To France, so rich in gayety,
Deauville, Versailles, and then Paris;
To Norway, rich in Viking lore;
To Holland's dike-surrounded shore;
And then to Italy rich in art—
Beauty that reaches to the heart;
Then on towards the Orient
On solving its deep mystery bent;
Africa, then perhaps I'd see—
To its deep jungles find the key.
And so, around the world I'd go
Each land I soon would learn to know.
How wonderful if dreams came true
And I could all these fancies do!

Massillon Centennial

Massillon was laid out in the winter of 1825-26. It was named in honor of Jean Baptiste Massillon, a priest at the Court of France.

The first lot in the village was bought by Captain Mayhew Folger upon which now stands the building occupied by the McLain Grocery Company. The first dwelling erected within the village limits was that which was erected by Julius Heydon on the southeast corner of Oak and Erie Streets. The second dwelling in the village was erected by Doctor Beriah Brooks in 1831. This is the present dwelling house of Mrs. S. A. Conrad.

With the locating of the canal and letting of the building of it in 1825 and 1826, respectively, business began to center in Massillon, which was laid out almost contemporaneously with the plans for the construction of the canal. In 1828, before the upper half of the canal was completed, a malignant fever swept over Massillon and the Tuscarawas valley which baffled the best medical skill. The necrology of that year records the deaths of many of the most enterprising citizens.

With the completion of the canal, Massillon became a great wheat market for the country roundabout and henceforth commerce was open between Massillon and the outside world. One of the first wheat warehouses was opened by the Wellman Brothers. On opening their store they offered "Cash for Wheat." John Eberhard was another of the prominent wheat dealers. Along with the growth of the wheat trade there grew up in 1832 a new industry which was known as the Massillon Iron Company. This company was established through the efforts of Jesse Rhodes and James Duncan. This new industry consisted of the manufacture of pig and iron castings, tea-kettles, sugar kettles, and, in short, everything under the nomenclature of "castings", This plant was erected on the west bank of Sippo Creek, south of Main Street. The great and crowning glory of Massillon industries was the establishment of The Russell & Company on January 1, 1842. The three brothers, Charles M., Nahum S., and Clement, carpenters by trade, formed a partnership with a capital stock of $1500 for the manufacture of threshers and horse-powers. The products of The Russell & Company are nationally known, having won various premiums, the first one being at the Ohio State Fair in 1845.

Among various other activities of the village were the building of the first school of Massillon in 1827 on the corner of Mill and Charles Streets, the establishment of a postoffice in 1826. Captain Mayhew Folger was appointed as postmaster during the administration of President Adams and continued in that capacity until the administration of General Jackson had gotten underway. The first quarterly report showed a balance due the government of 80 cents. One of the most important events in the history of Massillon was the organizing of Coxey's Army. This army was organized by Gen. Jacob S. Coxey for the purpose of demanding employment for the unemployed. This famous march from Massillon to Washington took place in 1894, during the early part of President Cleveland's second term.

Two disasters visited the village in its youthful days. One of these was the bursting of the dam of the 1100 acre reservoir on the night of Feb. 22, 1848. On this same night a grand ball was given in the "Tremont House", the site of which is the present location of the Sailer Hotel, by the owners of the Massillon Rolling Mill Company. While the dance was at its height a roaring and hissing sound was heard. The reservoir dam had been blown up with powder and the immense body of water came rushing down Sippo Valley. Can you imagine a breastwork of water from six to eight feet moving down Sippo valley? The loss of property was immense, the whole section of the town near the path of the torrent being swept away. Dreadful as was this calamity, there is no detailed account of the the exact losses suffered. The second disaster was the fire which occurred on August 27, 1851, which wiped out the entire block between Main and Plum Streets, and Erie and Mill Streets, with the exception of one building.

In reviewing the progress of Massillon, of its founding, and of its pioneer days it is well to remark about the present condition of Massillon. From a one house village it has grown to a city with a population of about 25,000 including the newly annexed territory. The wheat trade has diminished but in its place Massillon has a large steel industry. Massillon has changed from a grain trading center to a manufacturing center. Considering its schools, churches, industries, etc., Massillon is a model town.

You know our club—you also know the girls are working to obtain its ideal, an honest and just purpose in life. This club encourages each member to find the best in herself and inspires her with the desire to give the best in every day life.

The meetings of this club have been very pleasantly planned this year, and each of the girls has enjoyed herself fully. One of the very pleasant events was the friendly gathering of the Washington High School girls with those of the McKinley High School. This was the first time they have joined together in such perfect harmony.

Many other activities have occupied the girls this year. One of these being the annual party given for the poor children of this city.

Evidence of the happiness brought through efforts to attain the club's ideals is found in the fact that membership has steadily increased until there are now ninety-five girls in the High School Club each striving—

To find and give the best.

The Hi-Y Club is a world wide organization based upon Christian principles. Its purpose is to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character. The Hi-Y Clubs do not work independently, but are bound together by common ties, and work toward a common end. They keep in touch with one another by conferences throughout the year. This year our Hi-Y Club was represented at the State Conference at Middletown, Ohio, and later was host to the Northeastern Ohio Conference at Massillon.

The local club is composed of about thirty fellows of Washington High School. Every year as old members are graduated, new members are initiated into the club. These new members are selected bcause of their moral and Christian character, or else to be strenghtened morally and spiritually.

The Hi-Y Club supports school activities and advocates clean sports. A few illustrations of this may be shown by the way it helped the Patrons' Reception committee, the shining of shoes during the Christmas Seal Campaign, and the selling of football badges during the football season.

Those of us, who are leaving this year, wish to extend to you, who are returning, our best wishes for your happiness and future success in your Christian undertakings.

17. Akron South rolls us in the mud 7-0. Didn't our boys held 'em though?

18. Mr. Gorrell has a smashup.

19. Isn't Mr. Gorrell wonderful? He surely took some of the bitterness out of defeat and we all feel better.

20. Mr. Gorrell finishes the lesson he has been teaching us.
"Four things a man must learn to do
If he would keep his record true:
To think without confusion, clearly,
To love his fellow men sincerely,
To act from honest motives, purely,
And trust in God and Heaven securely."
—Van Dyke.
"Love your fellow men sincerely". That means you.

21. Alvia Urban entertains us at the piano.

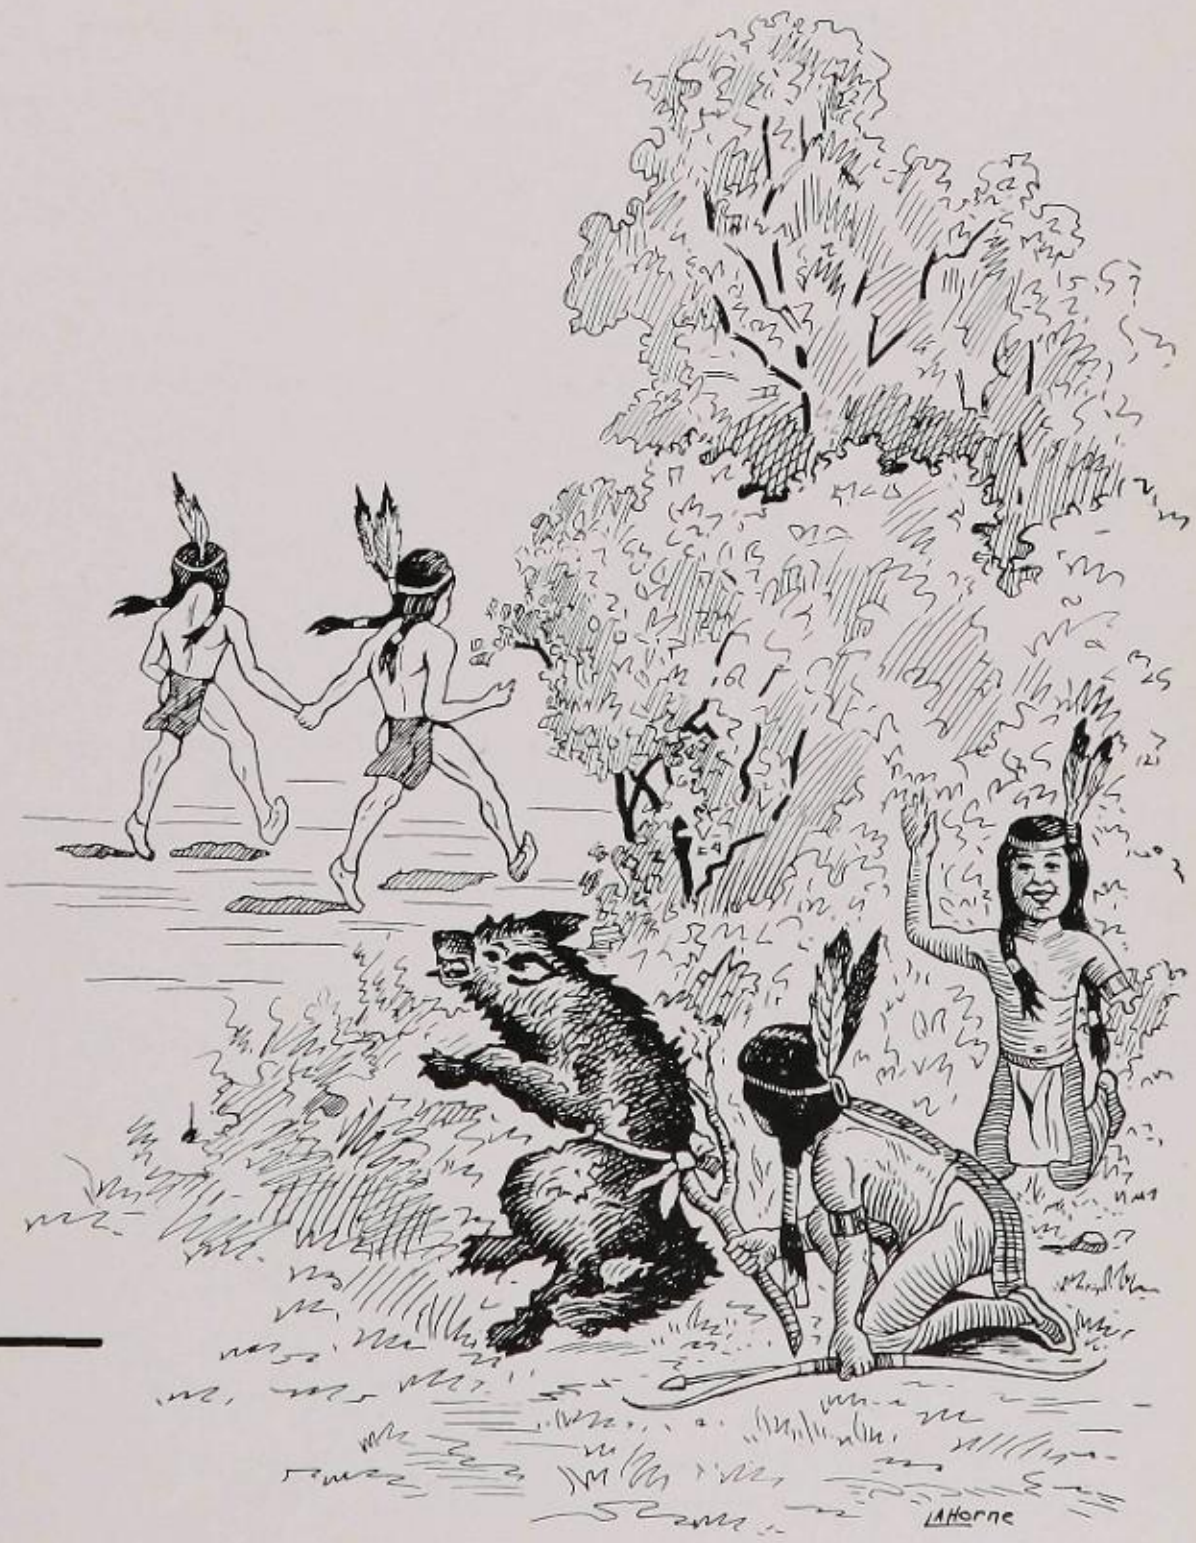
JOKES



Class of '26 in the Year 1940

Helen Albright has founded a club for retired basketball stars.

Howard Alden has done much in the field of science and has made the basis of a new religion called Boydism.

Beulah Appleby has founded a dress designing shop and her "Beulah Frocks" are quite the rage. Her best mannequin is Helen Bailey.

Leland Ax is the world's best comedian. He is ably accompanied by his partner, Lou Binford.

Elizabeth Becker has taken over her father's business. It is said that she is making the hardware business in this town a credit to everyone.

Caroline Boyd has defied the fates and instead of becoming a great pianist has married her old schoolday sweetheart.

"Mutt" Clark has surprised us all. She is the "fat lady" of Barnum and Bailey's Circus.

Ahem! Here we see the queen of a great country! We always suspected Muriel Cook because of her preference for purple in her school days.

Paul Brown has been judged the most handsome man graduated from Dartmouth.

Helen Cadman has found her ideal man at last and they have gone to Europe on their honeymoon. His name? Can't you guess?

Eleanor Eayrs has left for Africa to spend six months learning the negro dialect to use in her famous poems.

Delmar Halpin is Delmar Halpin no longer. His full name is Delmar Martina Halpin Brenner!

Mervyn Grosjean has compounded a new dictionary. Noah is completely forgotten.

Elizabeth Glover is now "E. Glover, M. D.", and has just started to practice in the great metropolis of East Greenville.

George Gove is every bit as brilliant as in his school days. He is a noted lecturer and his favorite subject is: "Why I Have Remained A Bachelor."

In a recent beauty contest in New York, Ed Fricker won the title of "Mr. America."

Bernice Segel—Take care! She is the most noted vamp in Hollywood.

Bobby Kester is as angelic as ever. She is playing the part of the "Madonna" in "The Miracle."

Annette Kellerman is forgotten for Peg Heisler is now our "Perfect 36."

Poor Al Dewald! He is a famous cartoonist but only the other day he was thrown into jail for making a cartoon of Lucille Horne, the famous movie star who claimed that the picture was too insulting because "It did the utmost to mar her beauty and advertise her age."

Anne Sutton? Terrible! She's married a big butter and egg man from the west "for his money!!!"

Charles VanFossen has succeeded "Izzy" Wright as teacher of History in W. H. S. and many are those that pray Izzy will relent and come back to save them from utter destruction.

Roland Brown is a great Olympic star. He recently broke the world's high-jump record by crossing the bar at 15 feet.

You remember how fond of Latin Luke Helline was in the old days? Well—he has erected a monument to C. M. Ella Buch in the front yard of M. H. S.

We don't see much of Bill Harris these days. His wife is very fond of tossing her father's bricks at him and he is in the hospital most of the time.

Lois Snyder's husband recently bought her a Cadillac coupe. By the way, he recently sold that Nash roadster of his.

Evelyn Huff is the latest Ziegfield's Follies' "sensation!"

Ruth Brady is Massillon's first policewoman!

Verna Buchman is owner of a large restaurant in Alaska which specializes in peach ice cream.

Wayne Champior has won fame through his book entitled "Why You Should Not Wear A Pink Tie With A Purple Shirt."

Stella Cornell has cut off her curls and is now known as as "The Girl with the Perfect Bob."

We shall now present Reverend John Crone who is Massillon's most popular preacher.

Wilbert Delong is editor of the second Massillon newspaper called the "Delong Times."

Laverne Herbst has been disappointed in love and is leading the life of a hermit.

Thelma Hines is football coach of good old M. H. S. and her football teams are even being compared with those of Dave Stewart.

Jena Slusser can't get settled it seems. She has already divorced four husbands.

Elizabeth Houck is a creator of unusual and bizarre gowns.

Kenneth DeWalt is owner of a large cotton plantation in Siberia.

Miriam Dominick is the inventor of a garment which can either be worn as a collar or a pair of hose.

Charlotte Edwards has a steady job cooking for some one. Guess who?

Gladys Ehret is Massillon's head undertaker.

Raym Elliott? Oh Yes! He and Mrs. Elliott are spending the winter in Florida.

Pearl Fetter has invented a permanent "permanent" wave.

Letha Gallatin's name is heard the world over. She has discovered why people don't go ice skating in July.

Marguerite Gritti no longer is a strawberry blonde. She has dyed her hair and is now teaching others how it is done.

Azalia Hall has organized a girls' football team. Several members have made the "All-American", among them Eva Jaggers, who is a second "Red Grange!"

Ivan Hose manufactures silk stockings called "The Hose hose of Quality."

Clarence Hummel has given up poetry and is now playing Romeo in "Romeo and Juliet."

Kenneth Jacobs has become a hard-hearted cynic. We always knew it.

Lo and Behold! James Seifert has taken over the management of the Lincoln Pharmacy to the delight of W. H. S. students.

It has just been discovered that James Jones is the original Santa Claus.

Emily Liddell and Nonia King staged an elopement a few weeks ago. It was quite romantic, although Glenn Krisher sustained a broken leg trying to get Nonia to the ground from the second story.

Marjorie and Margaret Krisher have gone on the vaudeville stage as those "Kute Krisher Kids."

Paul Liebermann is now owner of Liebermann's Bakery and everyone urgently recommends his doughnuts—especially the holes.

John Meek is a mechanic in one of Henry Ford's automobile factories.

Robert Mang has entered the business world. He is an office boy at the Central Steel Co.

"Buzz" Pflug and Robert Swaney are Ohio's senators to Congress. Mr. Pflug holds the record for the longest speech ever made while Mr. Swaney, it is reported, has never even opened his mouth.

Ruth Storck and Flo Schrader are the proprietors of Cleveland's most exclusive "Tea Shoppe."

"Punk" Strobel has just graduated from college. It is reported that he pulled the "Step right up and call me Speedy" stuff with much success.

Katherine Dornacher is the Prince of Wales' secretary.

Jokes

Johnny Winters: "I dropped my watch in the river last spring. I found it the other day and it was still running!"
Max Spuhler: "You're crazy! No watch will run that long."
Johnny: "No, but most rivers will!"

Ralph Williams: "Say! Can't you take a joke?"
John Meek: "Surely! Where do you want to go?"

Miss Lichtensteiger: "Try to prepare most of your meals with a steam cooker."
Edna Oster: "But why must you cook the steam?"

Bob Dretke: "Do you know why you haven't red hair?"
Adrian Fox: "No. Why?"
Bob: "Ivory doesn't rust."

Sam Benson: "Bring one cup of coffee for the two of us."
Waitress: "How can two of you drink from one cup?"
Sam: "Oh just bring it in a cup with two handles!"

Martina: "Did you fix that tire?"
Delmar: "No. I left it flat!"

Mr. Gorrell: "Which part of a Ford causes the most wrecks?"
Salesman: "The nut that holds the steering wheel."

Tommy Everhard: "What kind of shoes do you think I should wear with these golf socks?"
Miss Kramer: "Hip boots!"

Evelyn Huff:"I want some cold cream."
Jim Seifert: "Chocolate or vanilla?"

Paul Storrie: "I have a basketball nose."
Dude Everhard: "How so?"
Paul: "It dribbles!"

Mr. Ackley: "What was the first adding machine you ever used?"
Bob Mang: "My fingers."

Ethel Sylvis: "My complexion is my own."
Don Krisher: "Hey, where do you get that stuff?"

Traffic Policeman: "Why don't you blow your horn at crossings?"
Dave Stewart: "Why every time I do all the girls run out to the street!"

Ted Bernstein: "My car is a quiet, easy-running machine."
Raye Hopkins: "So I've heard!"

Midge Krisher: "All you have to do at the Faculty Tea is sit up and look pretty."
Mr. Ackley: " I won't be there."

Bill Edwards: "Why I get twice as much sleep as you do!"
Kammer: "Well you ought to; you have twice as many classes as I have."

Howard Ertle: "Get that lesson."
Joe Beadle: "I got it."
"When?"
"Last year when I took it before!"

Bob Ackeret: "What's an usher?"
Charley Myers: "The guy that takes the leading part in theaters.

Mr. Figert: "There are too many students in WashingtonHigh School these days."
Mr. Wright: "Too many what?"

Miss Kramer: "Will you please be quiet backstage?"
Paul Kramer: "There ain't nobody back here!"

Mrs. Heyman: "How did Greece gain her freedom?"
Kid Crawford: "Slipped away."

Mr. McLain: "Charles, can you put into practical use anything you are learning at school?"
Chuck: "Surely! The other night at Albright's, John and I scared off a burglar by yelling Osk—ee—wow—wow!"

Mr. Ackley: "Have you ever had hallucinations?"
Norm Harris: "Two times. The first time it didn't take, but the second time it left a big scar."

George Crawford: "How far are you in Economics?"
Glenn Krisher: "In the last stages of consumption."

Katie Kester: "Did you see Chuck play at the basketball game Saturday?"
Grace O'Donnell: "Why no, what did he play?"
Katie: "The trombone of course."

Miss Priest: "Did you use some underhand method in writing this theme?"
Ruth Storck: "No ma'am. Underwood."

Had Fulton: "Is he a good chemistry student?"
Chuck McLain: "Say he's so good he has the acids eating right out of his hands."

Miss Digel upon burning herself during a Physics experiment quickly clapped her hands together, "Now class why did I do that?"
Mildred Moyer: "To keep from swearing!"

Howard Alden: "My ancestors came over on the Mayflower."
Caroline Boyd: "It's lucky they did. The immigration laws are a little stricter now!"

Florence Calhoun: "I wonder why Mr. Layton wears his hair pompadour?"
Bill Harris: "Oh he likes his comb so well he refuses to part with it!"

Mr. Figert: "In 100 years there will be no beef. We shall then live on vegetables and milk."
Class: "But if there's no beef there will be no milk either!"

Bill Edwards: "Do you know the difference between a pigskin and a skinned pig?"
Chickie Chidester: "No I don't."
Bill: "Well! Woudn't you make some football player?"

Clerk: "No, we don't handle goldfish."
Lillian Ortwein: "I hope you don't; it's not good for them."

Miss Correll (in 2nd English): "Don't you like Kipling?"
Eleanor Greenawalt: "I don't know, how do you kipple?"

Johnnie Quinn is manager of a football team made up of former Washington Hi stars and they haven't lost a game in six years!

Ralph Williams, although "born and raised in a Tea Shoppe," is now a prize fighter!

John Zinsmaster is a Shakespearean actor. He is now playing Hamlet on Broadway. His leading lady, Miss Marian Jacoby, is Ophelia.

Florence Whitmore is posing for Palmolive soap advertisements.

John Tannehill is known as the Massillon "Arrow Collar" man.

Burdell Stahl causes quite a sensation wherever she goes. She is the only woman in the world with long hair.

Harry Ross is the original "midnight oil" student. He is still in college and studies every night until twelve o'clock at the very least.

Norman Tombow is a second John D. Rockefeller. He made his millions by a big deal in Florida real estate.

Martha Swier is happily married to her "ideal" man.

Helen Jean White is still an old maid because she can't find a man willing to do the housework.

Donna Williams has established an air route between Justus and Massillon.

Johnny Winters has taken over Henry Ford's business and now everybody is buying Fords because of their quality of endurance. Johnny uses his old tin can as an example.

Helen Vitak is the pilot of an airplane which flies from New York to Frisco three times a week.

Robert Weinrich has compounded a beauty clay which really does keep one beautiful.

Katherine Walmer is the world's diving champion.

Kenny Woods is the author of a series of articles on "How to attain the manly beauty of a Valentino."

Chuck Yost is a promising protege of John McCormick. It is reputed he is a second Caruso.

And here is Carl Woods who is now president of Ohio State University.

John Notman is hunting tigers in India with the Prince of Wales.

Millie Robinson is a jockey! She has ridden the winning horse in the Kentucky Derby for 3 years.

Vaughn Shilling is a professor of Mathematics at Yale.

Franklin Strecker has discovered a new species of elephant in the African Jungles.

Helen Smith has a roller skating rink all her own and there are three "ladies' nights" a week.

Alberta Limbach has grown to the astonishing height of 6 feet but she won't tell the secret of how she did it.

Marion Pollock is a dentist and his motto is: "Be kind to Dumb Animals."

And love, when it does love, in secret should love—
'Tis there where love is most admired;
But the two lovey-loves that don't care where they love
Make the public most mightily tired.

"Hello Mary"

Hello Mary,

I received your letter this morning and was glad to hear from you. But please don't send any more to me at school. You see everybody around here thinks I'm just a good joke, or something like that anyhow. They kid the life out of me all the time and if they found out I had a girl they'd razz me to death.

Believe me Mary there isn't any girls around here like you. I'm glad Hopper skeduled that game with Erie this fall! I guess I owe "Hop" a lot! Well Mary I'm glad you wrote to me. Answer soon.

Yours forever,

Irish.

Hello Mary,

Football season is now over and that means no more hard work for me except lessons. I'm glad of it too! Them football boys just thot they could boss me around all the time. Kammer is on the job always. Do you remember him? He is writing to some girl up there in Erie. Find out for me, will you?

Well so long Mary,

Irish.

Hello Mary,

Our basketball season has started. I tried to get them to skedule a game with Erie but I couldn't make them see the point. They got kinds suspishus so I just quit. Paul Storrie is captain and all the girls are getting cases on him. He's good looking and he knows it. We got a lotta handsome fellows around here Mary. I'm glad you don't no them. I'm awful modest Mary. But being Irish makes up for everything.

Good By, Mary

Irish.

Dear Mary,

This is now the second semester and seeing how I expect to graduate I gotta begin to work. Bill Edwards is back here again; he always was a great pal of mine howsome ever he's Welsh and I'm Irish about which we get into some pretty hot argyments. If he wasn't so much bigger than me I might win once in a while!

Art McConnell is a very funny guy. The girls all like him and 've ackshilly heard him ask about ten different ones.

Good By, Mary

Irish.

A Good Creed

came across this creed:-

¶ "I believe in the merchandise I am handing out, in the firm I am working for, and in my ability to get results. I believe that honest merchandise can be passed out to honest men by honest methods.

¶ "I believe in working, not weeping; in boosting, not knocking, and in the pleasure of my job.

¶ "I believe that a man gets what he goes after, that one deed done today is worth two tomorrow, that no man is down and out until he has lost faith in himself.

¶ "I believe in today and the work I am doing, not tomorrow and the work I hope to do, and in the sure reward that the future holds.

We've found it helpful–
it may assist you, too

WHAT DO CLOTHES MEAN IN YOUR LIFE?

They're just an incident probably—but they ought to be a very important matter. You may say we're biased because we're in business of selling good clothes—and we certainly do think it's an important job. But you'll agree that it is too if you'll stop to think of the important things good clothes do for you.

Doesn't a man have to have confidence in himself to succeed? Good clothes help to create it.

Doesn't a man have to have the confidence of others to get very far in life? Good clothes get that for you. Is it important to make good first impressions?

Good clothes again.

Is it worth while to have pride in yourself and in your appearance? You can't have it without good clothes.

Good clothes influence your thoughts, your acts, your success.

We have them; Hart Schaffner & Marx make them; it's easy for you to get them from

Growing up with the country means getting rich as your land improves in value. For a long time you have been considering buying a piece of ground and you've put it off and put it off and you've seen the price of land go up in the meantime. When it comes to buying property it is not intentions but the Deed that counts.

Does Your Costume Bring out Your Best Points?

There is a graciousness about the properly selected costume—that indefinable something indispensable where true clothes charm is appraised. It may lie in a frock with soft, becoming lines, fabrics that harmonize, colors that bring out a woman's best points. Then there are Accessories, those tremendous little trifles. Our selections of Apparel and Accessories are made with discriminating care, their purpose being to provide attractive means for our clientele to select "The Graceful Ensemble." Salespersons in these sections are particularly qualified to aid in its selection.
